NOTICE OF THE PUBLIC ACCESS REQUIREMENTS FOR INDIVIDUALS WITH DISABILITIES

This Notice provides you with important information regarding your obligations under the Americans with Disabilities Act ("ADA"), 42 U.S.C. § 12181 et. seq. This Notice does not completely describe the requirements of the ADA and must not be relied upon as legal advice. This Notice is intended to make you aware of the existence of the ADA, inform you of possible penalties for your failure to comply and provide you with sources you can contact if you need additional information.

It is your responsibility to learn the requirements of the ADA and fully comply with its provisions. Your failure to do so may result in penalties including liability for damages, attorney's fees and costs and significant civil money penalties.

The Americans with Disabilities Act of 1990 is a Federal civil rights law that provides important legal rights to some 50 million Americans with disabilities. Title III of the ADA was enacted to eliminate the obstacles faced by persons with disabilities in obtaining the full and equal enjoyment of the goods and services provided by America's businesses. Title III of the ADA became effective on January 26, 1992.

Title III of the ADA applies to places of public accommodation and commercial facilities. It is your responsibility to seek additional information and determine whether the law applies to your business. However, if you own, lease or operate a business that invites the public into a facility to do business, then your establishment probably is subject to Title III of the ADA. Examples of public accommodations include, but are not limited to, hotels, restaurants, bars, theatres, stadiums, auditoriums, bakeries, grocery stores, shopping centers, banks, shoe shops, dry cleaners, professional offices, gas stations, libraries, museums, parks, schools, gyms and most other business establishments that invite the public in to do business.

DISCRIMINATION PROHIBITED

The ADA prohibits places of public accommodation from discriminating against an individual with a disability. It is unlawful to deny participation to, or provide a separate or unequal benefit to an individual or class of individuals on the basis of their disabilities. Goods, services, facilities, privileges, advantages, and accommodations must be provided in the most integrated setting possible.

For example, it is unlawful for a place of public accommodation or commercial facility to: 1) Impose or apply eligibility criteria that screen out individuals with disabilities from full participation in and equal enjoyment of any goods, services, facilities, privileges, and advantages and accommodations; 2) Fail to make reasonable modifications in policies, practices or procedures when such modifications are necessary to afford persons with disabilities equal access; 3) Fail to provide auxiliary aids and services to prevent individuals with disabilities from being segregated or denied equal participation or access; or 4) Fail to remove architectural and communication barriers that are structural in nature in existing facilities.

This is not a complete list of prohibited activities. It is your responsibility to familiarize yourself with the requirements of the law and fully comply with its provisions.

EXAMPLES OF BARRIER REMOVAL

Structural barriers in your place of business may deny equal access to persons with disabilities and violate the ADA. All public accommodations must remove architectural barriers in existing facilities, including communication barriers that are structural in nature, where such removal is readily achievable. Some examples of steps you may be required to take to remove barriers to equal access by persons with disabilities include, but are not limited to, the following: 1) Installing ramps; 2) Making curb cuts in sidewalks and entrances;

3) Repositioning shelves; 4) Rearranging tables, chairs, display racks, vending machines, and other furniture; 5) Repositioning telephones; 6) Installing visual alarms; 7) Widening doors; 8) Installing accessible door hardware; 9) Installing grab bars in toilet stalls; 10) Rearranging toilet partitions to increase maneuvering space; 11) Insulating lavatory pipes to prevent burns; 12) Creating designated accessible parking spaces; and 13) Removing high pile, low density carpeting.

This list is not exhaustive. It is your responsibility to familiarize yourself with the requirements of Title III of the ADA. Title III requires that you inspect your establishment and remove barriers to equal access in compliance with the applicable regulations located at 28 CFR Part 36. Your failure to comply with the ADA may result in penalties including damages, attorney's fees and costs and significant civil money penalties.

The State of Florida enacted the Florida Americans with Disabilities Accessibility Implementation Act, Sections 553.501-.513, Florida Statutes. The purpose of the Act is to incorporate into the laws of the State of Florida the accessibility requirements of the ADA, while at the same time maintaining those provisions of Florida law that are more stringent than the ADA.

Construction, alterations and barrier removal performed in the State of Florida must comply with the ADA and Florida Accessibility Code for Building Construction.

Escambia County Property Appraiser

Tangible personal property (TPP) can be defined as all property, other than real estate, that is used in a commercial activity. Examples of tangible property are tools, furniture, equipment and machinery, supplies, and leased or loaned equipment.

Filing Requirements

[FL Statutes 193.052 & 196.183]

Persons or firms owning, leasing, consigning or renting tangible property in Escambia County on January 1 must file a return with the Property Appraiser unless a waiver to file a return has been granted. Returns and waiver notifications are mailed annually in January. Failure to receive a return does not relieve you of your filing obligations. Tangible returns can be obtained by calling the Property Appraiser's office or downloaded at www.escpa.org.

$25,000 Tangible Exemption

[FL Statute 196.183]

Timely filed accounts are eligible for a $25,000 exemption. The TPP Return is the exemption application. New businesses are required to file an initial return even if they have assets less than $25,000.

Filing Dates

[FL Statutes 193.062, 193.063 & 196.183]

Tangible property returns are due April 1 unless a 30 day extension has been granted. Returns filed late are subject to penalties and are ineligible for the $25,000 exemption.

Failure to File [FL Statute 193.073]

If an owner fails to file a return, Florida law requires the Property Appraiser to prepare a tangible assessment which is considered reasonable and appropriate for the tangible owner.

Penalties [FL Statute 193.072]

Florida Law requires the Property Appraiser to assess the following penalties:

- No return filed 25%
- Late returns 5% each month up to 25%
- Omitted property 15%

A Tangible Waiver will be mailed to all accounts of record if the account was fully exempt in the prior year. No action is necessary if the business status or location has not changed and the value for the current year does not exceed $25,000. A return is required if the value exceeds $25,000 or the business has relocated. Please notify the Property Appraiser's office, in writing, if you are no longer in business. Please include the date your business closed and the disposition of the assets. If the business assets were sold, please provide the date of sale and the name of the purchaser.

Household Goods and Furnishings

[FL Statutes 192.001(11)(a) & 196.181]

Household goods and furnishings become taxable when used for commercial purposes, such as furnished rental units. They are not taxable when used for the comfort of the homeowner in a domicile residence.

Confidential Status [FL Statute 193.074]

Tangible property returns are protected by state privacy statutes. This means that the facts recited in tangible returns are treated as privileged and those facts are not divulged to anyone other than state authorities as directed by statute.

Inspection Procedures

Tangible property procedures may require a routine inspection of the premises of tangible owners.

Notice of Proposed Property Taxes

[FL Statute 200.069]

Notices of Proposed Property Taxes are mailed annually to taxpayers. These notices contain the times, dates and places of the public hearings conducted by taxing authorities. These hearings provide an opportunity to address elected officials concerning budgets and tax rates. Proposed assessments, exemptions and taxes are also recited in these notices. Questions concerning exemptions, penalties, or assessed values should be directed to the Tangible Personal Property Department of the Property Appraiser's Office.
